

THE PEN/FAULKNER FOUNDATION

2018-19 ANNUAL REPORT

Friends of PEN/Faulkner

After 39 years of celebrating literature and connecting readers and writers nationwide, 2018-19 represented a season of new growth for PEN/Faulkner.

We settled into new offices, giving us a stable location from which to serve our constituents, local and national.

We launched a new pilot initiative—Nuestra Voz—that served Latinx- and Hispanic-identified students in the DC school system.

We established a rigorous new survey and data collection system to ensure that our Education Programs all achieve genuine impact.

We debuted a series of Literary Conversations to engage our community in provocative discourse with writers from around the country.

Last, but not least, we brought on a new Executive Director—that would be me—to lead our organization's talented staff.

Thank you for everything you do to support us.

Yours,

Gwydion Suilebhan, Executive Director

Our Mission and Values

The PEN/Faulkner Foundation celebrates literature and fosters connections between readers and writers to enrich and inspire both individuals and communities.

We are dedicated to the notion that our culture thrives when stories from a diverse variety of perspectives enrich our daily lives and when no voices are excluded from our conversations.

We believe the written word plays an essential role in contributing to civil discourse and in creating empathy within and among communities.

Fiction Awards

We honor contemporary American writers with the PEN/Faulkner Award for Fiction, the most significant peer-juried literary prize in the United States, and the PEN/Malamud Award for Excellence in the Short Story.

Literary Conversations

We bring authors from around the country to locations throughout the DC area so that their work can provoke rich, civil public discourse about matters of urgent importance to our community.

A woman with glasses and a light blue shirt is signing a book titled "THE LACK OF" for a young girl with curly hair wearing a pink shirt. They are at a table in a library or classroom. Other students in maroon shirts are in the background, some looking at books. A large printer is on the right.

Education Programs

We connect DC students in grades 3-12 with free books, author visits, and professional writing instruction—in both English and Spanish, thanks to our Nuestra Voz initiative—to inspire the next generation of readers and writers.

The background image shows a school library or classroom setting. In the foreground, a woman with glasses and a light blue shirt is smiling and looking towards a young girl with dark hair. The girl is holding a book. In the background, several other students in maroon school uniforms are standing and talking. There are bookshelves filled with books and a large printer on the right side of the image.

2018-19 Highlights

This year's PEN/Faulkner Award for Fiction went to Call Me Zebra* by Azareen Van der Vliet Oloomi. In the words of our judges: "Once in a while a singular, adventurous, and intellectually humorous voice appears that takes us on an inescapable journey. Ms. Van der Vliet Oloomi's novel performs at the highest of levels in accomplishing only what the written novel can show us."

Our finalists also included The Overstory by Richard Powers; Love War Stories by Ivelisse Rodriguez; Don't Skip Out on Me by Willy Vlautin; and Tomb of the Unknown Racist by Blanche McCrary Boyd.

2018-19 Highlights

The PEN/Malamud Award went to two-time PEN/Faulkner Award-winner John Edgar Wideman. In the words of the Malamud Award Committee:

"Through complex, lyrical language, Wideman creates intimate portraits of the characters in his sprawling family, in his classrooms, in prison, and elsewhere, characters whose conflicts mirror the larger world as it struggles with history and identity. Wideman challenges readers to consider what defines, separates, and unites us."

“For the past seven years, I have been privileged to provide my students not only with books that they can annotate and keep, but also with unforgettable conversations with living authors.”

—Clare Berke, English Teacher and Department Chair

“Winning the PEN/Faulkner Award at such a delicate and trying juncture in our nation’s troubled history is an honor I am infinitely grateful to carry.”

—Azareen Van der Vliet Oloomi, author of Call Me Zebra
